NAVY SUPPLY BILL PASSES THE SENATE

Measure Carrying $78,000,000 for Building War Vessels.

GOVERNM'T YARD PROVISION

This Recommendation is Vigerously Pressed, but in Vain-House Defeats the Forestry Bill-The Canal and Cable Measures.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10.—
Another of the big supply bills of the government was disposed of by the Sencie to-day, the naval bill, carrying more than $78,000,000, being passed. It includes provisions for the two first-class battle-ships, two first-class armored cruisers and two gunboat, but strikes out the House provision that one of each shall be built at government yards.

Mr. Perkins, a member of the Committee on Naval Affairs, argued that some of tee on Naval Affairs, argued that some of the vessels of the navy ought to be con-structed at government navy yards, and he urged that the admirably equipped government yards ought to be utilized. This policy, he said, was demanded by the labor unions.

Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, asked if this was a demand or a request on the part of the labor unions.

"I mean that it is a request," replied Mr. Perkins. "They maintain that it is to the interest of the government that the navy ards belonging to the people should be utilized for building war wes

Mr. Perkins maintained that the in-creased cost of construction in govern-ment yards on account of the eight-hour law, was more than offset by the im-mense salaries paid the management in

An amendment offered by Mr. Mallory, of Florida, appropriating $100,000 for a fire-proof building at the Pensacola, Flanavy yard, was agreed to.

When consideration was resumed of the Isthmian Canal question Mr. Turner de-livered an extended argument in support of the Nicaraguan route. He said it would at once relieve the Pacific Coast from the onerous burdens placed upon it by the trans-continental railroads, which had become well-nigh intolerable. Mr. Morgan discussed the legal difficulties of acquiring the Panama Canal property, and declared that the United States could not buy the property with-out acquiring the incumbrances upon it. The House bill providing for the proof the President was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

In the House.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The House to-day defeated the bill to transfer cer-tain forest reserves to the Agricultural Department and to authorize the Presi dent to establish game and fish preserves Its death was accomplished by the method discovered by Representative Cannon, of Illinois, as "cutting off the head behind the ears," and known parliamentarily as striking out the enacting clause. The mo tion was made by Mr. Cannon. He claimed that the bill would greatly in-crease the cost of administering forest reserves, and the vote followed a state-ment by him, in which he pointed out that the estimated receipts for the next fiscal year already were exceeded by riations up to the present time by $51,000,000. The vote stood 100 to 70

The House adopted a special order for the consideration of the Corliss Pacific Cable bill by a vote of 108 to 73. Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, who presented the rule, announced that he was opposed to the Government building a cable to the Philippines. He favored the construction of an American cable by American capl-

LEGISLATURE AND GOVERNOR

Little Stock in the Talk About the Body Refusing to Confirm Appointments. Chat About New Circuit Judges and Congressmen.

There is a great deal of public interest in the question of whom Gov. Montague will name on the new Corporation Commission, which will go into effect on March 1, 1903, and it is said that the list of applicants is growing daily. The friends of Mr. E. S. Both these gentlemen have exceptionally strong papers, and their respective friends are still working like beavers for their suc-

Little, if indeed any, stock is taken by public men in the printed stories that the Legislature will attempt to thwart the effectiveness of the convention's work on corporations by refusing to confirm the Governor's appointments on the new Corporation Commission. The reason assigned in the stories referred to, is that assigned in the stories referred to, is that the Legislature has a great grievance against Governor Montague because of his recent veto of the congressional re-apportionment bill. Members of the Legislature, who have been seen on the sub-ject express utter ignorance of any one's ose to do such a thing, and declare purpose to do such a thing, and declare that they will join no such movement.
"It is all talk, such as was heard concerning the fighting of the veto of the apportionment bill in the courts," said apportionment by the such that "and the such apportionment bill in the courts," said a prominent Democrat last night, "and nothing will ever come of it."

It is known that, as ar rule, the members of the Legislature are favorable to the new Constitution and it is not believed were they in opposition, that they would fly in the face of the overwhelming public sentiment in the State, which has been shown in many ways to be in the state, which is the symmathy with the work of the hearty sympathy with the work of the convention. A gentleman in discussing the matter last night, said the punishment inflicted would be upon the people rather than the Governor, and he did not believe they were the man in both rather than the Governor, and he did not believe there were ten men in both branches of the Legislature, outside of Republicans, who would attempt to de-prive their people of the benefits to be de-rived from the new organic law.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10.—There were a number of the Virginia delegation absent from the House to-day for one reason or another. Mr. Maynard is still at home looking after his renomination, and it is understood that he has quite a fight on his hands. Nothing definite seems to be known here in Washington in regard to the outcome of the fight for the Democratic nomination in the Second District. A very shrewd Virginia politician in speaking of the chances of Lawless and Maynard a few days ago said to the representative of The Times: "It is too early to tell yet now the fight will come out. So far as I can see both the can-didates are starting out with mistakes to their credit. Maynard made a mistake, I think in not lining up with one or the I think, in not lining up with one or the other of the two factions that are fighting for supremacy down there, and Lawless' first speech in which he went out of his way to attack Maynard seems to have done its maker no good."

Considerable amusement was evinced to-day-by those interested in and observant of Virginia politics by the accounts of the sup between Lamb and

At a meeting of the Water Commisslon held last night, all the old employes were re-elected. The officials of the works remain also the same. There was nothing done at this meeting relative to the filtering of the water, which is tive to the filtering of the water, which is used. There are several applications or letters from filtering companies in the hands of the commissioners, but as yet no action has been taken in regard to them. Some of the members think that the city is unable to expend some one or two hundred thousand dollars now for better water.

MAY NOT QUALIFY.

The policemen in Manchester who have in the past been deputies for the City Sergeant, are at the present time in a quan-eant, are at the present time in a quandary as to whether they will qualify for another two years. In the event they do not qualify, who will be appointed by Judge Ingram is of some interest also. The small amount paid is scarcely enough for their time, and they may not again quality. M. J. G. Saunders goes into of-fice the first of July, and unless the police decide to qualify by that time, it is likely the Judge will appoint some one for the In times past there were two police men who did the work mentioned, and for their services they received $200 each. Since that time the salary has been cut down, until now it is only about $37 a year. The whole amount paid is $149.92.

FIGHT AGAINST BELL.
When the recommendation from the Street Committee to the Council relative to granting of a temporary permit to the Bell Telephone Company to string wires on Eighth Street comes up there will be some lively argument against it Not only will the councilmen who are not members of the Street Committee vote against granting any permit to this company, but the members of the com-mittee, who ordered the recommendation will vote against it. This is learned on good authority. The

This is learned on good authority. The Council will meet Friday night, and then the remmendation will be read. It states that a permit is to be granted to the Bell Telephone Company to operate for the length of six months, poles and wires in Manchester. Within this time, however, there is a provision that the company cannot charge a sum exceeding that charged in Richmond for the use of the 'phones.
CHESTERFIELD COURT:

Chesterfield County Court was in session yesterday hearing the cases of Junius Reynolds (colored), charged with housebreaking, and Isabelia Jones and Strother Hill for a misdemeanor. Reynolds was given three years in the penitentiary. Cornelius Minns (colored) was attorney for him. The other case was diamissed. Mr. W. B. Cox. of Manchester, represented these parties. At the court to-day the case of Laura Taylor. court to-easy the case of Banta layer, charged with poisoning Henderson Smith, whi be tried. The Taylor woman, it is alleged, used rough on rats in bread which the old darky had to eat. Dr. Merchant has made an examination of the bread found in the house at the time of the executive and the result will come out in the trial to-day.

NEGRO CONVICT.

The appearance of a negro wearing the stripes of a convict near Forest Hill Park yesterday morning created some little interest and excitement in Manchester terest and excitement in Manchester. Several parties went out in the neighborhood looking for the man in an effort to earn the reward. The convict asked several negroes near Beaufont Lithia Springs to give him some clothes. He stopped a driver of a wagon on the road coming into Manchester, about two miles above Forest Hill Park and pleaded for some money. Special Officer Overton went out, but did not find any trace of the man wanted. It is supposed he is one of the prisoners who escaped from the State prisoners who escaped from the State farm several days ago. WAS A SUCCESS.

The sacred cantata, "The Light of the World is Jesus," at Cowardin-Avenue Christian Church last night, under the direction and supervision of Miss Lizzle Bohannan, was a success from ever point of view.

The small children in fancy costumes the pretty decoration of the church and the excellent manner in which the whole programme was arranged, tended to make the evening one of supreme enjoyment. There was not a hitch. Miss Edna Bay-ley, as the bride of the church, presented

TALKED ABOUT THE REGATTA

Directors of the Virginia Club Held a Meeting Yesterday.

The Board of Directors of the Virginia Boat Club held its monthly meeting at the club-house on Mayo's Island yesterthe club-house on Mayo's Island yesterday afternoon. Every officer of the club was present and all of the members of the board. Mr. William F. Gordon was elected to serve as a director in the place vacated by Mr. G. Woodbridge Edmond, who has removed from the city.

The meeting was an interesting one, and much enthusiasm was shown in the discussion of the plans for the regatta to be held June 28th. The final arrangements have not yet been made; it is yet to be determined just how many races will be rowed. As soon as the programme is complete it will be publicly announced. Mr. W. Gray Wattson was appointed chairman of the Regatta Committee to look after the details incident to the various races.

The principal event is, of course, the race with the Washington and Lee crew, and this year the race will be exceedingly close, if the reports from Lexington are true. The Virginia Club's crew are all good men, however, and they will no doubt give a good account of themselves at the finish.

While it has not been positively settled, the Virginia crew will probably consist of W. C. McGowan, stroke; William F. Gordon, No. 3; Julian H. Hill, No. 2; A. A. Booth, bow, and W. B. Clalborne, coxswain. To beat that aggregation Washington and Lee will have to burry. day afternoon. Every officer of the club

Jefferson as Farmer.

Jefferson as Farmer.

With Thomas Jefferson agriculture was a serious business. Regular farming operations, on some eleveh hundred acres, were carried on at Tufton and other parts of his property. While President, supplies were carried to him from the garden at Monticello and he usually loaded the returning carts, in the proper seasons, with trees and other plants. In the trees and shrubbery he took the most careful interest, knowing which ones died and giving minutest directions for their care, even when bearing the heaviest burdens of public life. As early as 1766 he began to keep a farm diary, making records of the blooming trees, the sowing of crops, and the general procession of the season's work. When President he made detailed notes on the produce and prices in the Washington markets. The farms appear to have been profitable, although the hilly character of the land made it expensive to work, and his farming seems to have been less successful than that of Madison at Montpeller, in Hanover county, to the eastward. Wheat was the staple crop. All the world knows how, after his retirement from public life, his substance was devoured by a constant stream of friends and curisoity seekers, who took advantage of his hospitality; and the Monticello estate, which should be the property of the nation, passed from the family.—Country Life in America.
